Seneca Companies Denver branch personnel changes and additions

(Des Moines, Iowa – May 6, 2021) – Seneca Companies has named a new branch manager for the Denver branch and added a skilled electrician to its operations.

Steve Cox has been named as the new Denver branch manager. Steve has been in the industry for his entire career starting as a teenager in his family business and with Seneca for over twenty years. Doug Struve will assist with Steve's transition over the rest of 2021 with a planned retirement of January 1, 2022.

Bill Yarkosky has joined Seneca as an electrician and project manager. Bill previously owned his own company, BT Electric. We are excited to have Bill join the Seneca family in Colorado and for his experience and expertise to enhance what we can offer our customers.

"We are lucky to have someone like Steve to take over as branch manager in Denver. His relationships with customers and his expertise speak for themselves. We thank Doug for everything he has done for the Denver branch over the years and for his help in transitioning the reigns to Steve. Adding Bill to the team is just another way we can expand our capabilities in the mountain region for our current and future customers," said Darren Binning, VP of Fuel Systems.
